Show Me Ready!

Camden County Citizen corps offers free disaster preparedness courses to teach people how to protect themselves, their families, neighbors, and fellow employees for up to 96 hours in the event of a major emergency or disaster until first responders arrive.

The Community Emergency Response Team (CERT) training, known nationwide as CERT, educates citizens in

- Family disaster preparedness
- Fire safety
- Light search and rescue
- Cribbing and leveraging to extricate victims
- Medical operations including basic first aid, how to set up a triage unit, patient assessment, and minor treatment
- Hazardous materials safety
- Disaster psychology
- Terrorism

For more information on the next available CERT class, contact the Citizen Corps Council at (573) 346-7108 or camdenmoema@hotmail.com
