To whom it may concern:

I want to take just a moment of your time and brag about one of our employees in the Camden County Assessor's Office.

Approximately three weeks ago, Angie Williams, an employee in the Assessor's Office, found approximately $750.00 cash in the stairwell of the old Courthouse building. (Where there are not any security cameras).

Angie, having the utmost integrity, immediately turned the cash into the Sheriff's Office.

We always hear about and see all the negative events, happenings etc. around all of us in today's world. I am happy to announce that there are still good, honest, hard-working individuals left in this world.

If you run into Angie Williams, inside the Courthouse, or out on the street. I ask that you salute her for doing what is right. Doing what is right, even when there were no human eyes, or security cameras watching her.

Regards,

Byron J. Willis
